Rex Surgical Specialists Take Over Third Floor Of Rex Hospital Medical Office Building

Recently, Spectra Builders demolished and rebuilt the entire third floor of the medical office building at Rex Hospital, a member of the UNC Health Care family. Rex Surgical Specialists, offering a tradition of excellence, innovation and leadership in the capital community since 1938, has now moved into that space, in which every aspect was designed with the care and comfort of their patients in mind.

The Rex Surgical Specialists' new offices include numerous items that make it a "top of the line" facility. A large waiting room with warm tones gives it a small, intimate feel. It offers a private area for patients wishing to schedule future appointments or needing help scheduling procedures. A special flight physical exam room is for pilots only. Doctors use electronic medical records for increased security and privacy, and music is also played overhead, quietly, in the patient exam rooms. Furniture throughout the office is designed to comfortably accommodate bariatric patients.

Doctors provide a variety of specialties. Some offer a comprehensive range of minimally invasive in-office treatments for vein disease and aesthetic skin solutions using the Gemini Laser by Iridex. A team specializing in gastrointestinal and reflux surgery works with the Rex Heartburn Center to provide patients a surgical option for severe reflux and GERD. The surgical oncology team works closely with the Rex Cancer Center, offering a comprehensive cancer treatment program that includes a specialized surgical team.

The breast surgeons are members of the American Society of Breast Surgeons and offer a wide range of surgical options for the treatment of breast disease. The exam and procedure rooms accommodate a team of surgeons and staff that perform endocrine surgery, including that of the thyroid, parathyroid and pancreas. Other areas of specialization include bariatric surgery, hernia repair, laparoscopic surgery, emergency surgery, vein treatment and wound treatment.

The doctors and staff at Rex Surgical Specialists are extremely pleased with their new offices. Many noted how excited they were to be able to open on time. Spectra Builders would like to thank Pam Michael, Sr. Vice President-Brokerage, of Jones Lang LaSalle; James King of RGG Architects in Durham, N.C.; Bill Muck and Melissa Parker of Rex Healthcare Construction Services; the doctors and staff at Rex Surgical Specialists; and all the subcontractors who worked on this job.
