Jesus' instructions. When we pray for murderers, deceivers, liars, racists, abusers, rogues, thieves, seducers, home wreckers, misusers and other unrighteous persons to be saved, we are simply asking God to change them from their evils and sinfulness. A few things happen when sinners come to Christ and believe in their hearts that He rose from the dead: They acknowledge their sins, confess their need for salvation, and repent (turn from their evil ways). When they turn from their evil ways, they stop killing, lying, stealing, fornicating, abusing, seducing, swindling, scamming, house invading, misusing, racial profiling, and other types and forms of discriminating and bullying. They begin to love the Lord with all their heart, soul, and strength, and to love others as they love themselves (Their aim and focus changes from the life style of a heathen to one who hungers and thirsts after righteousness, striving to please God and keep His commandments). It benefits the people of God to pray for their enemies to be saved. If you or a loved one has been violated or mistreated, I pray to God in the name of Jesus Christ, that through your tears and healing process, God's grace, will comfort you and give you peace which passes your understanding, and with such great peace and comfort, you will be endowed with power and faith to pray for salvation for those who have dealt so evilly against you and yours. May the Lord continue to give peace and comfort to all His children! Amen.

From the Editor:

As the season changes from summer to fall, summer camps and activities end and another school year begins. Youth, parents, teachers, students of all ages, and the entire community feel the effects of school openings. Financial, educational, social, business, religious, transportation, communications, government, and every industry are inevitably impacted to some degree in seasonal transitions and when classrooms open during the fall or close during the summer. We are all one gigantic community. Everyone of us contributes to our world. Each of us is a benefactor of one another. Financial and business institutions regulate hiring, marketing, and revenue based on seasons, based on historical data, which consists of such indicators as fluctuations in demands for services and products. They adjust staff and supplies accordingly. There is a mutual dependency between industry and consumers. Neither can reach full potential without the other. Similarly, human beings depend on each other. We need and desire different things on different levels. For example, a baby needs nurturing in the form of food, embracing, staying warm, changing pampers, keeping it safe, etc. Toddlers need encouragement to gain confidence in toilet training and expressing themselves. School age children need parental, peer, and other relationship definitions. Adults endeavor education, work, and other relationships. The elderly require their unique needs to be met such as those of medical and health. When we begin to realize that God made us and the world this way, we may be more likely to understand that we are all one big family. Then, we may be more kind and patient with others, regardless of their color, gender, beliefs, financial, social, cultural, or other characteristics. No human being is without fault or sin. No human being can exist without others. Every human being needs love and acceptance. Every person has a purpose. The love of God in us makes us love ourselves and others. What can you do today to show your love for God? What will you do today to show your love for everyone around you: What will you do to take care of the earth, plants, air, and sea? What we do makes a difference in this world! (Please note this disclaimer: The Editor's note does not necessarily reflect the opinions of Holistic Ministries, Inc.)
