

The Equality and Human Rights Commission - New Guidance on Sexual Harassment and Harassment at Work

The Equality and Human Rights Commission (in the UK) has issued new guidance on Sexual Harassment and Harassment at Work. I would strongly urge employers to pay particular attention to Section 5 - Preventing and Responding to Harassment - as it is likely that this guidance will be used as a point of reference in the event that harassment cases are brought before employment tribunals and/or the law courts.
