Wild turkeys are a common site at Lake Chabot and all over Castro Valley.

No Worries for These Birds At East Bay Regional Parks

By Ned MacKay
SPECIAL TO THE FORUM

The turkeys that are often seen in East Bay Regional Parks, other open space, and even residential neighborhoods, seem to have been less active lately, perhaps because they sense that Thanksgiving is approaching.

However, they are still out there, and their story is an interesting one.

Turkeys are native to eastern and central North America. A variety existed in what is now California about 10,000 years ago, but the species died out. The turkeys we see in the wild today are descendants of birds that were reintroduced to the state many years ago for hunting purposes, with the acquiescence of state fish and game.

I've seen and heard them at Briones Regional Park, Diablo Foothills, and my own front lawn in Pleasant Hill.

There is still a turkey-hunting season in California, but no hunting of any kind is allowed in the East Bay Regional Parks. For turkey-hunting regulations, visit wildlife.ca.gov.

Wild turkeys live in oak woodlands. They are ground nesters, but can fly up into trees to escape predators. Their diet consists of seeds, bugs, berries, acorns in the fall, and clover in the spring. They are food themselves for mountain lions, bobcats, coyotes and raptors including golden eagles.

COVID-19

Alameda County Back to the Most Restrictive Level

Due to very rapid and widespread increases in COVID-19 cases, the California Department of Public Health has, effective today, modified its Blueprint for a Safer Economy to allow for a faster response to the pandemic.

"California is pulling an emergency brake," Gov. Gavin Newsom said on Monday as he announced that Alameda and 40 other counties — comprising more than 94% of the state's population — would be moving to the Purple Tier, the most restrictive level in the state's reopening framework.

Rather than using data from two weeks ago and moving only one tier at a time, the State is now using data from a single week and moving counties multiple tiers where necessary.

The changes will allow for a timelier response and keep the health care systems from becoming overwhelmed, according to officials

Like other Bay Area counties, the Alameda County's case rate continues to increase daily and hospitalizations are also on the rise.

What this means for local businesses and residents:

- Effective at 12:01 a.m. today, Nov. 18, all activities and sectors must conform to the State's requirements for counties in the Purple Tier. Indoor operations for places like museums, houses of worship, gyms and restaurants are not allowed.

- Alameda County will provide additional guidance to local restaurants in the coming days on how to continue operating outdoors safely as the weather changes. Current guidance is available at covid-19.acgov.org/recovery.

- Any activity that was only permitted in the Red or Orange Tier will need to close, effective today. More information is available at www.cdph.ca.gov.

Changing Faces of The MAC Board

By Amy Sylvestri
CASTRO VALLEY FORUM

Expect another new face on the Castro Valley Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) in the near future.

MAC member Dolly Adams announced she was stepping down during Monday's MAC Zoom meeting. Earlier this month, Adams was elected to the Castro Valley School Board and said she didn't want to potentially have any conflicts of interest.

After years with little turnover, the MAC has seen a lot of changes recently; new members Tojo Thomas, Al Padro, and Ilya Prokopoff only joined this past July and Adams herself had only been on the board since December of 2018.

The new member will be appointed by Alameda County Supervisor Nate Miley.

At Monday's meeting, the MAC also heard about a plan to improve intersections and two-way traffic on two streets — Strobbridge and Norbridge — which were previously one-way only, an issue that anyone trying to get out of the Wendy's or McDonald's parking lots will be familiar with.

The new two-way flow will improve traffic circulation and provide a new east-west connection to high-traffic locations such as the BART station and the library, according to Rick Yeung, of the Alameda County Public Works Agency.

In-Person Voting Problem Now Under Investigation

The Alameda County Registrar of Voters said on Friday his office has investigated a problem that had occurred on Election Day at Mills College where a touch-screen device was used at an in-person vote center location.

In response to questions raised by members of the media and advocacy groups, Registrar Tim Dupuis said he learned that some — “at most 160” — of the 300 voters who used the touchscreen at Mills left without depositing their paper ballots in the ballot box. They instead took their printed ballots home, thinking they were receipts that they had voted.

Dupuis, in a press statement, said his office was contacting the Mills College touch-screen voters to collect those printed ballots and by the end of last week had received 22 of them. He said the number of outstanding ballots was not sufficient to determine the outcome of any race.

Dupuis said it did not appear that the same problem had occurred at any other touch-screen site in the county and blamed the error on poll workers at the Mills College location who, he said, had been provided advanced training on the equipment.

Dupuis said his office had successfully processed nearly 800,000 ballots from Alameda County registered voters for this General Election.

BART App: Customized Notifications

BART riders can now get announcements and customized in-app notifications about the system's service by using the official BART app.

Based on when and where they ride, passengers can personalize what type of information they get through the app including what information they care most about.

The customized notifications can be based on specific travel patterns at specific times of the day, giving riders information they want, when they need it. Notifications streamline a user's experience because it delivers the information automatically without going through the motions of looking it up.

With the latest version of the BART app, riders can be alerted to such information as real time train departures specific to stations, announcements about planned track shutdowns or schedule changes, and elevator outages.

Once riders have made their selections they will start receiving the notifications. While BART offers this information on its website, through email and SMS alerts, and listed within the BART app itself, this is the first time in-app notifications are being offered.

Socially-Distanced Veterans Day

By Linda Sandmark
CASTRO VALLEY FORUM

Castro Valley held a public, socially-distanced Veterans Day ceremony at exactly 11 a.m. on November 11 at the Castro Valley Veterans Memorial on Quail Ave.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9601 and American Legion Post 649 presented the event. Boy and Girl Scouts assisted, handing out programs and flags, and helping present colors at the opening flag ceremony.

District Chaplain and Past Post Commander Jim Uhlik provided invocation, prayers and benediction. Other speakers included Sr. Chief Petty Officer Stephen West, USN (Ret.) and Commander Bernie Remoaldo from American Legion Post 649. Jackie Lee Hoyt sang patriotic songs.

West noted that COVID had created similarities between service members and the masked crowd at the memorial; fighting an unseen enemy that might kill and wound our countrymen, while enduring long separations from family.

Remoaldo talked about the origins of Veterans Day, which was formerly called Armistice Day.

Just 8 Days to Go Before Turkey (and We) Get Stuffed

If you're cooking a frozen turkey this year and you haven't bought it yet, you should do that first thing. It takes about a week to thaw a turkey in the refrigerator (never thaw in room temperature). When buying, a good rule of thumb is to figure on 1 to 1-1/2 pounds of uncooked turkey per guest.

There are, of course, many ways to cook the bird, but whichever system you use, the results will be pretty much the same. In the end, it will just taste like roast turkey.

You don't need any special equipment other than a roasting pan and a good thermometer. And cooking a turkey is simplicity itself. But it never hurts to have a little refresher course.

If you are going to stuff the turkey, you will need about a cup of prepared stuffing for each pound of bird. Do not stuff the turkey ahead of time. The stuffing goes in just before you put the bird in the oven. Leave some room for the stuffing to expand as it cooks and absorbs juices.

Preparing the Turkey

After thawing, remove neck and giblets, and wash the turkey inside and out with cold water. Drain well and pat dry. Brush the skin with olive oil.

Mix about 2-1/2 teaspoons of salt with about 1-1/2 teaspoons of black pepper and sprinkle it evenly in turkey cavities and all over the skin. Heat oven to 450°F. If you are going to stuff your turkey, do it now. Skewer cavity openings to secure stuffing. Tie legs together and twist wing tips under the back to hold neck skin in place. If untucked, return legs to tucked position or tie together. Place turkey, breast side up, on rack in open pan about 2 inches deep.

Place turkey in oven and reduce heat to 325°-350°. Roast according to chart and meat thermometer. Roasting times can vary, depending on a number of things. Use a meat thermometer (don't depend on a pop-out indicator) inserted at the thickest part of the thigh, but not touching the bone. It should register 180°F. The stuffing should register 165°F. After the first hour of roasting, baste the turkey every 30 minutes or so with drippings (add a little chicken stock, water or wine to the drippings if they evaporate too quickly). When skin is golden brown, shield breast loosely with light foil to prevent overbrowning.

When the turkey is done, allow it to rest for at least 20-30 minutes before carving.

TRADITIONAL SAVORY STUFFING

1-1/2 pound loaf day-old bread
3 cups chopped onion
2-1/2 cups chopped celery
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1-1/2 teaspoons poultry seasoning
1/4 cup chopped parsley

Tear bread into 1/2-inch pieces, or use 3 quarts plain dry stuffing; set aside.

Sauté onion and celery in butter just until tender. Add to bread along with salt, seasoning, and parsley. Toss lightly until well mixed. Place in two buttered, covered casserole dishes or stuff loosely into neck and body cavities of turkey.

TURKEY GRAVY

Turkey drippings
Giblet broth
Cooked giblets, chopped
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
Salt to taste

Cover giblets and neck with 3 cups water in a small saucepan. Bring to boil, cover, reduce heat and simmer for an hour or until giblets are tender. Drain, reserving broth and discarding neck. Chop giblets.

Pour turkey drippings from roasting pan into 4-cup measure. Remove 1/4 cup fat from the drippings and place in a pan. Skim off and discard remaining fat from drippings. Add giblet broth to drippings to make 4 cups.

Blend flour into the pan with the fat until smooth, then add drippings and broth mixture.

Cook and stir over medium heat until gravy comes to a boil and thickens. Stir in salt and pepper to taste and add giblets.

To carve, place the turkey breast up on a carving board and spoon out stuffing.

Use a chef's knife to remove thighs, drumsticks and wings. Slice drumstick holding the knife parallel to the bone. Slice in alternating cuts from each side of the bone. Slice the thigh as it lays flat on the board.

Switch to a very sharp carving knife and make a horizontal base cut across the bottom of the breast. The sharper the blade, the more attractive the slices. (Don't use a serrated blade, as it tends to tear up the meat.)

Starting parallel to breast bone, slice diagonally down to the horizontal base cut. Continue slicing the breast by beginning at a higher point each time.

Carving the Turkey

Arrange the turkey, breast side up, on a cutting board. Steady the turkey with a carving fork. Using a sharp knife, slice through the meat between the breast and the leg.

Next, using the knife, press the thigh outward to find the hip joint. Slice down through the joint and remove the leg. Cut between the thigh bone and drumstick bone to divide the leg into one thigh piece and one drumstick.

To carve the drumstick, cut a thick slice of meat from one side, along the bone, then turn the drumstick over so that the cut side faces down. Cut off another thick slice of meat. Repeat, turning the drumstick onto a flat side and cutting off meat, carving a total of four thick slices.

To slice the thigh, place it flat side down on a cutting board. Cut parallel to the bone and slice off the meat.

Remove the wings by slicing diagonally down through the edge of the breast toward the wing. Using the knife, press the wing out to find the shoulder joint; cut through the joint and remove the wing and place on serving platter as is.

To carve the breast meat, hold the back of the carving fork against the breastbone. Starting parallel to the breastbone, slice diagonally through the meat. Lift off each slice, holding it between the knife and fork, and layer them on the warm serving platter.

Tips and Online Resources to Help You Track Down Long-Lost Friends Online

By Jim Miller
SPECIAL TO THE FORUM

Thanks to the Internet, tracking down long-lost friends from many years ago is relatively easy to do and, in most cases, it won't cost you a cent. Here are some tips and online tools to help you get started.

Remembering the Details

Before you begin your search, a good first step is to jot down any information you can remember or find out about the people you're trying to locate. Things like their full name (maiden and married), age or birth date, last known address or phone number, old e-mail address, names of family members, etc. Knowing details can help you turn up clues while you search.

Social Media, Search Engines

After you compile your information, a good place to start your search is at social media sites like Facebook, LinkedIn, Twitter and Instagram. And search engines like Google and Yahoo.

When using search engines, type in the name of the person you're searching for in quotation marks, for example, "John Smith." You can narrow your search by adding other criteria like their nickname or middle name, the city or state they may live in, or even their occupation.

People Search Sites

If your initial search comes up empty, you can also use people searches like AnyWho.com, Intelius.com or WhitePages.com. These sites provide a list of potential matches from across the U.S.

Because many people share the same name, these sites will also supply details to help identify the right person, perhaps including their age, prior hometowns, names of relatives, colleges attended or employer.

While these sites are free to use at a basic level, they charge a small fee for providing certain details like the persons contact information. WhitePages, however, sometimes provides home phone numbers for free.

Niche Finding Sites

Here are a few other niche people-finding websites to help you with your search.

To look for old high school classmates, try Classmates.com. This site has contact info only for people who have registered with it. But even if your friend hasn't registered, it could provide contact info for another classmate who remains in touch with your friend.

Another option is to check out your high school alumni website.

Not every school has its own site, but some do, and you can look for it by going to any search engine and typing in the name of the

Some Ideas to Fight Boredom

By Matilda Charles
SENIOR NEWS LINE

ARE WE BORED YET? Of course we are. We're staying indoors, especially now that cold weather has arrived, not shopping, not visiting friends, not doing much of anything.

Somehow we have to get through this winter, though, and now might be the time to explore things that are new and different to us. Here are some ideas:

Change the channel. If you watch the same television news every night, switch to a different one (or better yet, skip a night or two). If you watch the same shows all the time, consider watching something different, even if you think it won't appeal to you.

Step outside. Even though it's cold outside, wrap up and go outdoors anyway. Don't try this if there's ice, of course, but even a few minutes walking outside in fresh air can raise your spirits.

Grab your camera. Set up still shots around your house. A fabric background on a table or shelf, a few small statues or trinkets and a lamp for lighting, and you might discover that you have a real eye for photography.

Or read a new author, learn

Grab your camera: You may have an eye for photography.

to watercolor, take a free online course, watch zoo cams.

The idea is to try new things, even given our "stay at home" limitations.

As of this writing, most states are seeing big increases in coronavirus levels, even states that were stable with relatively low rates even a few weeks ago. We seniors are, unfortunately, in the high-risk group because of our age, even if we don't have health concerns.

And as of this writing, the U.S. has more active cases of the coronavirus than any other country in the world, including India. It has four times the population but half the deaths that we do. It's everywhere, and we can't let down our guard.

Stay home, stay safe and look for new things to occupy yourself.

Slight Increase to Social Security Benefits

By Gene L. Osofsky, Esq.
SPECIAL TO THE FORUM

The Social Security Administration has announced a 1.3 percent rise in benefits in 2021, an increase even smaller than last year's.

Cost-of-living increases are tied to the consumer price index, and a modest uptick in inflation rates and gas prices means Social Security recipients will get only a slight boost in 2021. The 1.3 percent increase is similar to last year's 1.6 percent increase, but much smaller than the 2.8 percent rise in 2019.

The average monthly benefit of $1,523 in 2020 will go up by $20 a month to $1,543 a month for an individual beneficiary, or $240 yearly.

The cost-of-living change also affects the maximum amount of earnings subject to the Social Security tax, which will grow from $137,700 to $142,800.

For 2021, the monthly federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payment standard for those beneficiaries living independently will be $954.72 for an individual and $1,598.14 for a couple, which amounts include the California supplement.

In some years, a small increase in the Social Security benefit has meant that the additional income is entirely consumed by higher Medicare Part B premiums. But this year, that shouldn't be the case.

The standard monthly premium for Medicare Part B enrollees is forecast to rise $8.70 a month to $153.30. However, due to the coronavirus pandemic, under the terms of the federal short-term spending bill recently signed, the increase for 2021 will be limited to 25 percent of what it would otherwise have been.

Most beneficiaries will be able to find out their specific cost-of-living adjustment in December of this year by logging online into my Social Security. While you can still receive your increase notice by mail, you have the option to choose whether to receive your notice online instead of on paper.

For more on the 2021 Social Security benefit levels, visit www.ssa.gov/news/cola/

GUEST COMMENTARY

COVID-19 Introduces Offshore Notarization Issues

We frequently deal with sellers located in other countries. Since most documents can be signed electronically, the only issue is signing the final closing documents. Since they need to be recorded, they must be notarized by a notary accepted by the State of California.

In the past, regardless of where sellers were located, the process was the same. While some states allow offshore notaries to process documents, California has stricter regulations and requires all documents notarized offshore to be by notaries officially recognized by the United States Government.

In practice, this has meant that all documents can only be signed at US Embassies around the world.

In most cases, it simply meant a trip to the closest US Embassy. Since the US has over 300 embassies around the world, one was usually not far away. While travel to a US Embassy might be inconvenient, it was usually better than returning to the US to sign documents.

If it was not possible to access a US Embassy, the sellers would board a plane, fly to the closest US city, meet a notary at the airport, sign the documents and then board a plane and fly home.

This was, of course, pre COVID-19. Currently, due to the pandemic, most US Embassies around the world are closed, forcing those in other countries who need notarized documents to find other solutions.

Consequently, the State of California allows offshore notaries to process documents so long as they are accompanied by an apostille. The Merriam-Webster dictionary defines an apostille as: "a document used in international law that is issued by a government in accordance with the Hague Convention and that certifies that another document has been signed by a notary public."

Obtaining an apostille introduces significant delays. As an example, a seller who recently located to Ireland had documents notarized by an Irish notary who then mailed the documents to the Irish Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade where the apostille would be applied.

Shelter-in-place rules forbid a more timely in-person delivery. After more than a week, the documents were returned and then overnighted to the US. In reality, the process took more than 3 weeks.

Our recommendation is simple: if offshore notarization will be necessary, obtain a Power of Attorney for each signer so someone can sign in their stead here in the US. If done ahead of time, there will be no significant delays.

Extend the Fresh Tomato Season

By Buzz Bertolero
Special to the Forum

I'm ready to compost what's left of my tomato plants, but they're some nice size, green tomatoes. Is there a way I can ripen the green tomatoes? I just hate to throw them away.

It never fails; some of the best tomatoes are left on the vines at the end of the season. And yes, green tomatoes can be successfully ripened off the vines in a simple ripening chamber.

This is a pretty simple technique using any cardboard box or plastic container with a lid. The lid is critical as it traps the ethylene gas given off by the ripening tomatoes. This naturally occurring gas is used to accelerate the ripening of the immature/green fruits. The bottom of the container is lined with a thick pad of newspaper or wool blanket.

The tomatoes are evenly spaced on the newspaper, but don't let them touch each other as rotting can occur. You monitor the tomatoes every five to seven days, removing the ripe ones. There can be multiple layers in a single box, separated by a layer of newspapers. But,

I wouldn't have any more than two layers in any container, as it's challenging to check on the ripening tomatoes on the bottom layer.

The boxes are stored in the garage or outside under covered areas and out of the direct sunlight. It's unfortunate; gardeners overlook this simple technique to extend the fresh tomato season.

Bug Control; Privacy Glass

By Buzz Bertolero
Special to the Forum

Q My lemon tree produces beautiful lemons that I give to my friends. This year, the leaves are curling and covered with colorless glue; I see lemons coming now. But I won't give them away till I know it is safe to use. What needs to be done to correct this problem?

A First, there are no contamination issues. The lemons are edible. The clear sticky residue or colorless glue is the secretions from sucking insects such as Aphids, Mites, and Scale feeding on the plant.

The insects also cause the leaf to be curly, turn yellow, and very common for a Black Mold. The organic control is to spray them with Horticultural Oil. It's available at many lawn and garden retailers. Make one application now and, after blooming, two more. You would then reapply as necessary. Before giving them away, I would wash them off with warm water.

Q We regularly put seedlings by a large window to get some indirect sunlight before they are ready to go outside. It works great. However, during the winter, the window that brings the best sun is the bathroom window. It's very sunny, but it's not clear glass but privacy glass. Would the seedlings be okay there, or should I not waste my time?

A I can't think of a problem using privacy glass with the seedlings. The direct sunlight would be indirect and bright, as you said. So, I expect you'd be just fine.

WEEKEND GARDENER

Spray

Plan your dormant fruit spraying schedule to coincide approximately with cool-weather holidays, when the rain lets up for a few days. Specific cues are the fall of the last leaves (Thanksgiving), the height of dormancy (New Year's Day) and when buds swell, but before they show color (Valentine's Day). Spraying at the precise period of bud swell is particularly important—after the blossoms open it is too late.

Mulch

Renew mulches under grapes and berries. Strawberries and blueberries benefit from loose, acid mulches such as pine needles or rotted sawdust. Raspberries and blackberries prefer hay or straw mulch.

Remove mulch from under trees back to the drip line. Bare soil can more easily absorb the day's warmth. This also discourages overwintering of disease-carrying bacteria and insects.

Wildflowers

Now, between showers, is a good time to sow wildflower seeds for spring flowers. California poppies are a good bet for anybody's yard.

Vegetables

Cool-season perennial vegetables may be planted now — artichokes, asparagus and rhubarb.

Roasting with herbs

Combining softened butter with fresh thyme, rosemary, sage and parsley in a food processor makes an excellent rub for your holiday turkey: www.foodnetwork.com/recipes/bobby-flay/thanksgiving-pioneer-style-herb-roasted-turkey-recipe

Girls Scouts and Boy Scouts took an active role in Wednesday's ceremonies.

Veterans: Salute Concluded Ceremony

U.S. Navy veteran Frank Mellon, who is also an EBMUD Director, told a story about his father, who was a longshoreman before entering military service in 1941. Mellon himself enlisted in the Navy during the Viet Nam war, and was stationed in Turkey and Hawaii.

Chaplin Jim Uhlik invited the community to see the newly expanded and upgraded Veterans Memorial adjacent to the Castro Valley Community Center. He reminded the crowd that there is a story behind each name on the bricks and stone monuments.

"It's not about wars. It's about Veterans. It's about all of us," said Uhlik.

A rifle salute and "Taps" concluded the ceremony. Taps was played again that evening at 5 p.m.

MAC: Plan to Improve Traffic in the Area

The next step in the long-developing plan to improve traffic in the area is to look at the intersections of Strobbridge and Norbridge with I-580 and do traffic studies on turning restrictions and traffic control in that area, Yeung said.

Yeung said that as of now, there are no plans to remove the barrier at Strobbridge under the overpass which prevents drivers from entering the residential area south of the freeway, but said it was originally meant to be temporary and could be removed in the future after a discussion with residents.

MAC Chair Ken Carbone said that he knows some local residents appreciate that it prevents commuters from taking a shortcut through their neighborhood to the freeway, but it also requires people who live there to take a lengthy route out all the way to Redwood Road to leave their homes.

"We need to be fair to the community and ask them," said Carbone.

The MAC also unanimously voted to approve a hawk in flight as the symbol for Castro Valley which will be used on "way-finding signs" around town.

For several years, the County Arts Commission has been working the Eden Area Signage Plan, selecting icons for the unincorporated areas in order to strengthen their individual identities with the public. After multiple meetings, public polling, and the creation of a MAC subcommittee, Castro Valley finally has an icon.

The Castro Valley hawk will join line drawings of the Lorenzo Theater for San Lorenzo, a cherry and leaves for Cherryland, a tree for Fairview, and ash tree leaves for Ashland, according to Jaimie Orfanos, of the county's Community Development Department.

In 2021, the county will return before the MAC to discuss the location of the sign, Orfanos said.

Birds: Parks

Adult turkeys weigh 15 to 20 pounds. They have powerful chest muscles, enabling rapid flight, and can run as fast as 18 miles per hour. Because of their eye positioning, they have a visual range of 270 degrees. Their hearing is acute, too.

This is not turkeys' mating season. Wild tom turkeys assemble a harem of 14 to 20 hens between mid and late February. Breeding is in March, eggs are laid in April, and the poults (baby birds) hatch in May.

The females nest amid rocks and brush. The freshly hatched poults can't fly for their first two weeks of life, so predators get most of them during that period.

If you do see turkeys in the parks, please do not approach them or try to feed them. Just enjoy watching them from a distance.

Lake Temescal

With a technique oddly reminiscent of Lawrence Welk, the park district is using a bubble machine to oxygenate Lake Temescal in Oakland.

Technically, it's a mobile, trailer-mounted nanobubble generator provided under contract by a company called Moleaer. The device injects literally trillions of oxygen-rich nanobubbles into the lake water, each bubble 2,500 times smaller than a grain of salt.

Since the program started back in August, the lake's dissolved oxygen levels have significantly improved. Better water quality is a key factor in preventing harmful algae blooms. Oxygen rich water is critical for fish populations, too.

According to Matt Graul, the park district's chief of stewardship, high levels of nutrients in the bottom sediment have been exacerbated by periods of drought and warm weather and resulted in a surge of blue-green algae growth in Lake Temescal in recent years. The nanobubble technology offers a potential solution to maintain water quality and enhance the lake's recreational value.

Lake Temescal was constructed around 1860 and was initially 60 to 80 feet deep. Now sedimentation has raised the depth to 18 feet near the dam, 14 feet at lake center.

So if you see the bubble machine parked along the lakeshore, that's what's going on. Results should be available by the end of this year.

Ned MacKay is a writer for the East Bay Regional Park District.

The most recent wave of new infections in the county and across the state appear to be growing even faster than what the area experienced in the summer.

Restrictive: Limit Activities

Any school that currently has students attending classes in person may continue to do so, but no additional schools may open for in-person instruction, and the county is not offering a waiver process for elementary schools.

As the situation develops, county officials warned they may need to restrict activities even further to slow the spread of the virus. Gov. Newsom on Monday even hinted that the state is considering a curfew, but did not elaborate.

Since Bay Area counties implemented the first Shelter-in-Place Order in March, Alameda County has moved cautiously with its reopening, continuing to find ways to keep activities open.

While that approach seemed to be working, the most recent wave of new infections in the county and across the state appear to be growing even faster than what the area experienced in the summer.

Officials are urging residents to take steps now to limit opportunities for people to mix and gather, especially indoors without masks, to avoid overwhelming our health care system, limit the number of deaths, and protect frontline workers and medically vulnerable residents.

Local health officers may act to restrict activities more than the State's requirements in order to respond to local disease conditions and protect public health.

The spread of COVID-19 is driven by mixing with people from other households, especially indoors and without masks. To prevent further spread of the virus, county health officials say avoid gathering with people you don't live with, limit activities, wear face coverings whenever you leave home, stay home when ill, and keep interactions with others outdoors.

"We need Alameda County residents and businesses to, once again, rise to the challenge and help flatten the curve," said Dr. Nicholas Moss, Alameda County Health Officer. "Stay home for the holidays, wear face masks, maintain at least six feet of distance, wash your hands frequently, and get your flu shot. We all must recommit ourselves to the safety measures that helped us lower case rates in September and October."

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): This year, instead of jumping into the whole holiday prep scene, move in a little at a time. You'll appreciate the sense of control you're more likely to enjoy.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): The separation between the Bovine's head and heart is never as far apart as it seems. Both senses work best when they come out of logic and honesty.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): The best way to keep those pre-holiday pressures under control is to just say no to taking on new tasks while you're still trying to work with a heap of others.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): News means a change might be on its way, but what does it hold? Don't just ask questions; make sure you get answers you can trust.

LEO (July 23 - August 22): Old friends and new have one thing in common: Both your longtime and newly minted pals have much wisdom to impart.

VIRGO (August 23 - Sept. 22): With time running out, this is a good time for you to show 'em all what those Virgo super-organizational skills can do.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - October 22): Librans and holidays are made for each other, especially if children and animals are going to be part of your joyous season.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21): Time is getting too short to allow a spat to taint the holiday season. Restart your relationship and reschedule holiday fun times.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Seeking advice is laudable. You might learn far more than you thought you could. Stay with it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Continuing to assess changes works toward your getting your new project up and ready. Trusted colleagues remain ready to help.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): That new situation needs a lot of attention, but it's worth it. This is a very good time for you to involve the arts in what you do.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): It might be a good idea to slow your hectic holiday pace so that you don't rush past what -- or who -- you're hoping to rush toward.

BIGGEST FOOD DRIVE FOR COUNTY FOOD BANK

Troop 708: Scouting for Food

Scouts from Troop 708 in Castro Valley collected food donations in the Rite Aid parking lot on the Boulevard Saturday. This annual collection is the biggest food drive for the Alameda County Food Bank. Due to the pandemic, no door hangers or bags were delivered to homes this year. Instead, the Scouts manned drop-off locations to receive socially-distanced canned food donations. "It's for a good cause," said scout Sean Dunn. "People need the food even more than ever this year."

Fewer Plan to Hit Road This Thanksgiving

East Bay travel on Thanksgiving is anticipated to be on the lighter side this year.

AAA Northern California expects around 6.2 million Californians to hit the road for the holiday, the most extensive one-year decrease since the 2008 Great Recession and a drop of about a million from 2019.

The number may be even lower as the public monitors and responds to the public health landscape.

For those who decide to travel for Thanksgiving, the afternoon of next Wednesday, Nov. 25th, is expected to see the heaviest traffic increase.

"The wait-and-see approach travel trend continues to impact travel decisions," said Sergio Avila, AAA Northern California Spokesperson. "For those who are considering making a trip, the majority will go by car, which provides the flexibility to modify holiday travel plans up until the day of departure."

Before You Go

- Plan ahead. Check with state and local authorities where you are, along your route, and at your planned destination to learn about any restrictions that may be in place.

- Follow public health guidance. Consistent use of face masks, physically distancing, and regular hand washing are the best ways to lower your risk of contracting COVID-19.

- Verify before you go. Call ahead to hotel and ask about protocols and safety requirements.

- Helpful resources. Use TripTik.AAA.com to plan your road trip and help determine which rest stops, gas stations, restaurants, and hotels are open along your route.

County Library to Increase Access To More eBooks, e-Audiobooks

The Alameda County Library has formed a partnership with San Leandro's Public Library and its School District to increase access to more eBooks and e-audiobooks for students.

The collaboration was designed to promote literacy and digital learning by streamlining the schools' and the libraries' digital reading resources in one app called "Sora."

As a result, students can learn anytime, anywhere because of the convenience, ease of reading on-the-go and the inherent popularity of technology, which has become increasingly valuable in supporting new generations of lifelong learners and readers.

The school-library partnership provides safe access to thousands of age-appropriate titles for students' use inside the classroom, at home and anywhere 24/7.

Through the new Sora reading app, students can now borrow from the school's collection of classroom and pleasure reading.

The Sora app was named one of Time's "Best Inventions 2019" and is available for students to download through the Apple App Store and Google Play Store, and on Chromebooks that support the Google Play Store. It is also available for use in web browsers at soraapp.com on any computer.

The libraries' patrons can also borrow and read the complete eBook and e-audiobook collection with a valid library card through the award-winning Libby app. The library's tailored collection offers eBooks and e-audiobooks including bestsellers and new releases.

Readers of all ages can select from virtually every subject ranging from mystery, romance, children's, business and more. Libby can be used on any major device or computer, including Apple, Android, Chromebook and Kindle.

Both apps are built by OverDrive and OverDrive Education. To learn more, visit meet.soraapp.com/ and meet.libbyapp.com/.

Scouts Christmas Tree Lot

Nine local Scouting Troops will open a fresh-cut Christmas tree lot at 19201 Center St. in Castro Valley on Black Friday with a thousand trees and 100 wreaths for sale.

The Scouts will be working the Christmas tree lot to earn money for camps, camping, hiking and merit badges, all while learning people skills, business skills and life skills.

All county guidelines for COVID-19 will be followed, so there may be restrictions on how many people enter the lot.

CVSan's Compost Giveaway a Success

Gardens will be looking a little greener around Castro Valley in the spring after residents carried home nearly 3,800 cubic feet of rich gardening compost last fall.

The free organic compost giveaway was conducted from Aug. 17 through Oct. 1 by CVSan in partnership with Alameda County Industries and Pete's Ace Hardware.

Eligible residents registered for coupons, which were redeemable for two 1.5-cubic-foot bags of the compost. Over the course of several weeks, 1,263 residents redeemed their coupons which resulted in 2,526 bags of compost being distributed.

CVSan officials said they were proud to continue providing compost to the community as they have done in past years, and thanked Pete's and ACI for their help.
