

The gathering of acorns and other nuts was usually left to the women and children. This young boy decided to share his acorns with a friendly squirrel.