TEXAS CITIES

Go-To Coaching Guide

HEALTH EDUCATION AND WELFARE I

Health and Human Welfare (HEW), back in the day certainly helped many people, but welfare didn't do much for the cities where individual persons resided. Nevertheless families did survive. The gender problem caused issues that have all but dissipated in some ways. Female welfare recipients couldn't have a male residing within the same household, and receive welfare. True or false, snitches seemingly made a difference in who didn't attend school because they had too work. Public education suffered under health, education, and welfare. There was no obvious consideration that one day these persons would grow old having contributed little if anything into social security, as the overarching retirement system back in the day. Was anyone thinking the obvious that health care would one day become necessary?

Health Education And Welfare II

CHAPTER 1

The Department of Health Education and Welfare (HEW), came before Health, and Human Services (HHS). HEW was showing promise the year before 1924. The implemented proposal was part of a reorganization plan. The concept of Health, Education, and Welfare came in under the Administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower as a public health program for the community. Individual persons living in progressive cities like Dallas, with their bi-weekly trash pick-ups couldn't quite comprehend the mass problems in other cities. Chicago for instance had a past of dumps, municipal waste, and landfill issues. An example of a primary firsthand account of trash problems was in San Antonio. The old San Antonio has long since changed. Although at one point in San Antonio's history the city was affectionately regarded as inside the river walk and outside the river walk. Inside the river walk was spotless as though you were on a different planet. Outside the river walk was trash on both sides of your vehicle if you were traveling by car. The situation continued the entire distance or drive until you actually left the city. The City of Corsicana was different, as were most cities in Texas.

Genealogy, the Governor & You I

GENEALOGY, THE GOVERNOR & YOU

Texas Governor Beauford Jester, was the second in his family to get involved in politics. Governor Jester's grandmother's sister recalled vividly that her Mother didn't want to leave the known to venture the unknown in Texas. To get to Texas from Louisiana she remembered crossing the Mississippi River on a ferry boat which was popular in the late 1800s. Jester's great- aunt made a statement of entering Texas by crossing the Red River. She was an impressionable child at the time, and had never seen a red river. Decades, upon decades passed and she never forgot the image of the red river. It never left her mind. She was astonished that the actual color of the river was red. The Jester's came from Indiana. Levi Jester had little or no intention of uprooting his family to move to Texas. His stubbornness simply wasn't in the stars. Levi died leaving his wife and children no option except to move to Texas where her parents, sister and brothers had moved earlier. When the life of Levi was no more, his widow Diadema packed her children in a covered wagon, and headed to Texss to be where she knew her Mother, Father and siblings were living. Diadema and her children might have camped at one of the same creeks where her parents and siblings had camped years earlier. You'd Camp at Richland creek or Chambers creek, if your destination was the City of Corsicana. Which meant you had arrived. It also meant, you were close to Corsicana where Levi & Diadema Jester's son George would enter into politics. George would meet one of the infamous fundraisers for the Corsicana Public Library, Maude Gordon, and he would marry Maude's daughter Frances. George and Frances Jester's son, Maude's grandson, would become Governor of Texas.

Texas Teacher Mrs. Gordon Raises Library Funds

CHAPTER 3

The formalization of a good guidance. Maude Gordon and the other fundraisers were prolific and determined to make things happen. We stand back and look at Maude, a teacher in particular because her single effort affected her family. Children of that era in the 1800s were enthralled with books. There of course had to be wherewithal hidden underneath the canvass. What were the rules and how were they made flexible for the citizens of Corsicana, Texas?

Eligibility The word Public, in Corsicana Public Library said it all there was no question that you fit in when sensibly dressed with shoes, hat Off for male, a hat was acceptable for female. Due to the history, and published stories and oral histories public simply didn't sit right with everyone. While the word public was being sorted out.

Some citizens were being had fed books in a different setting meaning they couldn't come inside. Those days have long passed still memories creep in every once in a while due to the library's history. It doesn't last long. The current Library Director is ahead of her time and forward thinking.

Notice Citizens must abide by the rules and coaching include being observant of your environment inside and out. The guide would like to stress, safety. Look both ways before crossing, look both ways before entering. If you wear a mask, be observant of those who don't.

Financial Fines are part of the approach to keep everybody fair. Someone who need a book should be able to acquire the book on the day it's promised to be available. It's only only fair that if you don't h keep your promise that you are fined.

The Purpose of Go-To Coaching is to establish individual rights, and creativity. Unknowingly Maude's passion brought her intellectual grandson to the prominence of Governor of the State of Texas.

Director of Genealogy, Pearls of Wisdom, with Mrs. Stubbs

Go-To Coaching with Mrs. Stubbs, the Director of Genealogy, Corsicana Public Library. In her Pearls of Wisdom for the perfected interview. We begin with a video on the AncestryThread website. Here Mrs. Stubbs is seated off-camera. First Pearl of Wisdom: Always give your subject or the Interviewee the CU - (Close-Up). An analysis of how well everything worked is conducted every 2 years and 6 Months. In the short video everything prominent is covered. In her Second Pearl of Wisdom: The interviewer must come to the interview prepared. Listen as Mrs. Stubbs is focused on Catherine Porter, (deceased), a well respected knowledgeable citizen of Pelham, Texas. certain steps fall in place. Her steps are small conceived with patience. Mrs. Stubbs wants the year confirmed by the person who was an eyewitness. The Interviewee has a memory lapse. Mrs. Stubbs handles it professionally, by quickly stating the date and moving on to the next question. Third Pearl of Wisdom, “ Never let the Interviewer feel embarrassed. There are only secondary sources alive today for the 1800s Interview. A trip on a ferry boat could bring back memories just as rapid as a wagon travel overland. The reminiscence could bring the world to a halt if there was anyone living today who could tell the story. The Red River is filled with witnesses of the Red River in the past of people who actually saw firsthand that the river was indeed red. The cost to travel overland or by ferry was costly either way. If you travelled by ferry boat you paid out of pocket, and if you travelled overland God help, you might have paid dear life. If you listen close you’ll hear on the video Mrs. Porter stressing how when the gin was burning her sister was screaming how everyone was going to die, and how her brother was driving with excessive speed. Mrs. Stubbs had to have been focused on the interview as opposed to the storytelling. Which is Mrs. Stubbs fourth Pearl of Wisdom: Do not get drawn into the storytelling and forget the purpose of the interview. When traveling overland everything was compliant. On the ferry boat, the Captain make that decision for you. Coaching is much like travel by ferry boat. The coach is there to help you to grasp a better feel for what's important. Genealogy is a game of names for the wise. Learning new words like patrilineal and matrilineal are good when you have full comprehension of their meaning. You want to be coached gently enough for you to make your own discoveries like a written confirmation. You want your especially names confirmed. Which brings us to our final Pearl of Wisdom: Remember to write names down. Mrs. Stubbs sealed the deal by asking for the names of her brother and sister. We learn her sisters name was Martha, and her brothers name was Booker T. A great interview for under 10 minutes.

Library Director, Pearls of Wisdom

The best of the best is initiated. We look forward to more of Mrs. Stubbs, Words of Wisdom, and equally as much we look forward to the Words of Wisdom of the Library Director.

There are a multitude of reports that can provide news, but nothing comes close to the Go-To Coaching Guide. Especially with Words of Wisdom in the world of genealogy, and in the world today.

The Go-To Coaching Guide is temporary, in that anything more in-depth would be a more intensive research.

The AncestryThread To-Go Coaching Guide gives you choice of the work you wish to engage in. The simplifications are adjustable to your schedule.

Looks like you might be one among many who approve.

CONCLUSION

Monday August 01, 2022

Dear Mr. Huntley,

One can never go wrong armed with, “Do The Right Thing, and George Mason, IV. I couldn’t have asked for better leadership. A specific focus for imagining AT&T at its best. There’s the daily team, the people behind the scene who know what you’re thinking and how to get it accomplished in one swoop. They have names too. Shelly and Missy are the best of the best. Then there’s another team I’ve either spoken with once or twice or simply never met. I shout, “KUDOS” to each and everyone. They make me sparkle!

Thanks for reading,
